

TINY TUNES

Tiny Tunes is a music class designed for children from birth to age 5 to participate in with their parents. Children and parents will sing songs, play instruments, dance and do a wide variety of music activities in a safe and friendly environment. The program is designed to help children develop a musical center that will start them on a great path for music and learning in a school setting for years to come! Students will work on listening skills for both music and group structure, coordination and rhythmic skills, verbal and socialization skills and their ability to follow directions, focus attention, and share with peers. It is proven that children that participate in music beginning at an early age, develop their brain in language and reasoning, learn to be creative and become problem solvers. It enhances teamwork, dedication, provides a means for self-expression, and the list continues. There are so many benefits for children who participate in music.

Classes will be once a week, lasting for 8 weeks. Students will be grouped together by their ages, and all classes will be no more than 8 children. Classes will last 30 minutes and will be taught in the Music Room at St. John the Baptist School by music teacher, Jennifer Erdly.
